Plans To Prevent Threatened Rail Strike Being Laid.

KEEP MAILED GOING

Course Suggested By Public Group—Believe Walk-out Won't Be Called

Washington, Oct. 17.—Proposals for averting a nationwide railroad strike by federal intervention will be made to President Harding by Secretary of Labor Davis, the secretary announced upon his arrival here this afternoon.

"I have several plans for averting this strike and I will present them to the proper person," Secretary Davis said. "I am very hopeful that we will be able to avoid a strike."

Washington, Oct. 17.—While the various agencies of government worked quietly today to prepare for any eventualities that may come out of the threatened nationwide railroad strike, officials made it clear that the administration does not intend to permit the paralysis of industry and business because of the difficulties between the roads and their employees.

The only official making a public announcement on the government's plans was Postmaster General Hays, "strike or no strike," he said, "the U. S. mails are going to be moved." His statement reflected the general attitude of the government officials.

From the capitol the members of the public group of the labor board went to the department of justice, for a conference with Attorney General Daugherty over the legal steps possible to avert the strike, and also for a definition of their exact powers under existing law.

There was no excited activity on the part of any government agency for despite the apparent seriousness of the situation as reflected in the statements of labor leaders and railway executives, there is a distinct feeling on the part of official Washington that there will be no strike.

"In a situation of this kind," said one cabinet officer, "there is a whole lot of bluffing on both sides. I don't think there will be any strike."

At the department of the justice the feasibility of seeking an injunction to prevent the walkout is being seriously considered.

While preparedness plans were being brought to completion today, official Washington was holding its ear to the ground for the rumble from Chicago in response to the suggestion made by the public group of the Railway Labor Board that the carriers cut freight rates commensurately with the wage reductions already granted, the unions meanwhile to withdraw the strike order.

This would provide a "breathing space" for all sides and enable the

FIRST GROUP TO BE HIT

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The Southern Pacific, the Chicago and Northwestern and the Missouri Pacific are among the big railroad lines included in the group to be first hit by the railroad strike, according to well informed sources today.

Other railroads named in the first group are the Kansas City Southern, the Illinois Central, the Texas Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Great Northern, with the exception of the Chicago, Terre Haute and Southern division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Northern Pacific, and Southern railway (lines east and west) the Seaboard Air Line and the Virginian Railroad.

Several changes were made in the original group and may be further revisions before October 30, it was stated.

roads, the unions and the government's conciliators to approach the problem of permanent adjustment without the whip of national necessity hanging over them.

"The course suggested," said the public group, "does not involve any sacrifice of pride or prestige, either to the carriers or to the employees."

What effect this suggestion will have was unknown here today. It was expected that during the day some response would be forthcoming from the carriers and the unions.

Meanwhile the public group of the labor board went back into session with members of the I. C. C. today to see what can be done.

President Harding feels, it is said, that the problem primarily is one for the railroad labor board and the I. C. C. to work out.

Despite the strike order actually being issued and wholly at variance with the outward aspect of the situation there is a distinct feeling in official quarters that the strike never will be called. Public officials will not venture the prediction but privately they express the view that "both sides are bluffing to a great extent," and that when it comes down to actually stopping traffic they will find means of preventing it.

"No Turning Back" From Strike Declares Lee

Cleveland, O., Oct. 17.—"There will no turning back. We are going ahead with our plans for the greatest railroad strike in the world's history."

This was the declaration this morning of W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, as officials of the "big four" railroad brotherhoods and of the switchmen's union of North America made plans for the conference of the heads of the five unions involved in the proposed nationwide strike, affecting all railroads, scheduled to begin Oct. 30 at 6 a. m.

The hour for the beginning of the conference tomorrow which will formulate plans for the conduct of the strike depends upon the arrival of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; W. B. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors and T. C.

Cashen, president of the switchmen's union from Chicago.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, arrived in Cleveland yesterday and was busy throughout the day supervising the sending out of last minute instructions to the general chairmen of his organization by wire and mail.

Strike orders already issued, it was learned, can only be recalled by the sending of a code message already agreed upon, instructing the 500 general chairmen of the brotherhood scattered throughout the country that the strike has been called off.

Slight hopes that President Harding might be able by his personal intervention to reopen the disputed questions and hold a "get-together" conference of union heads and railway executives at Washington, at which the mooted points might be threshed out was expressed by some of the minor officials already on the ground here, however.

TWO HURT IN STREET FIGHT AT BOWERSVILLE

Marshal Jasper, Uses Gun After Being Struck By Missile, Shooting One of Quartet Whom the Officer Was Attempting to Arrest, Sunday Night.

Four men are under arrest here, and two are in local hospitals suffering from bullet wounds, as the result of a gun fight between Marshal Porter Jasper, of Bowersville, and four men he was attempting to arrest Sunday night, on charges of disorderly conduct.

The wounded are: Raymond Sheeley, 25, of one-half mile from Luttrell, between Luttrell and Octa, at McClellan Hospital, suffering from a bullet wound in the right shoulder and arm, and a bullet wound near the right shoulder blade.

Herbert Hargrave, 12 or 13, of Bowersville, at Espey Hospital, with a bullet wound in the thigh. The condition of neither of the injured is serious.

The four men who are under arrest are:

Raymond Sheeley, who is being detained at McClellan Hospital until he has sufficiently recovered from his injuries to be taken to the county jail.

Percy Sheeley, brother of Raymond Sheeley, same address.

Ray Lucas, Bowersville.

Charles Hidy, Octa.

Monday noon Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson was preparing affidavits charging Raymond Sheeley with transporting liquor; Percy Sheeley for resisting an officer, and Lucas and Hidy, each with drunkenness.

They will be arraigned in the court of Magistrate J. E. Jones.

The street fight and subsequent shooting occurred after the Rev. G. C. Foltz, pastor of the Bowersville church, and mayor of the village, had complained to Marshal Jasper that the men were drunk and were shooting craps in front of the A. L. Hargrave restaurant, in Bowersville.

New York To Be Supplied With Food By Air Route

Plans, for Aerial Transportation of Supplies to Metropolis In Case of Rail Strike, Laid—City Will Seize Foodstuffs for Distribution to Populace.

New York, Oct. 17.—Plans for aerial transportation of food to New York City in event the threatened railroad strike materializes, have been completed by the aero club of America, it became known today. More than 2,000 airplanes are available throughout the country to supply food to the larger cities, it was stated.

The first group of railroads in the strike leaders list includes only one railroad reaching New York—the Sea Board Air Line Railway. Thus New York will not be seriously affected by the strike at least until Nov. 1 when other groups are scheduled to go out.

Railroad officials here believe the strike could not now be averted. They declared there was nothing to arbitrate between the roads and the men.

Dr. Royal C. Copeland, health commissioner, announced completion of plans for seizure by the city of all foodstuffs here if he feels such action necessary. Distribution of food will be carried on under municipal supervision. Copeland appealed to the public not to hoard food before or during the threatened crisis. He declared there was sufficient food within the city to last three weeks. The chief shortage he said would be in fresh fruit and vegetables.

The commissioner expressed some concern regarding a possible coal shortage and advised factories and homes to lay in a supply immediately.

Although officials of the big roads coming into New York admitted it would be difficult to obtain experienced men to operate trains if the strike eventuates, they pointed out were many thousands of men out of work throughout the country and believed these men would be glad of the opportunity to work on the railroads.

FORGE NEW LINK IN FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN LANDS

Pershing Decorates Grave of Britain's "Unknown Warrior."

HARVEY TAKES PART

Officials Renew Bond and Express Desire for Lasting Peace.

London, Oct. 17.—The decoration of the grave of Britain's "unknown warrior" at Westminster Abbey by General Pershing today forged a new bond of friendship between England and America declared Premier Lloyd George. General Pershing conferred the congressional medal the highest military honor in America.

General Pershing, in a brief speech, referred to the importance of the occasion as cementing anglo-American unity.

After referring to the honor as binding together two great peoples, Premier Lloyd George added:

"It will have great significance to all the people of the British empire and will form an indissoluble bond of unity between two peoples of the English race. Unity of two such peoples becomes the best guarantee of the world's peace in the future."

General Pershing was moved by the demonstration of friendship.

"Let us profit by this occasion," said the American general. "Under its inspiration let us pledge anew our trust in the God of our fathers that he may guide and direct our faltering footsteps in the path of permanent peace. Let us resolve together in friendship and confidence to maintain towards all peoples the christian spirit that underlies the character of both nations."

George Harvey, American ambassador, read the congressional resolution to confer the medal. Then he continued:

"This medal comprises in addition to the high military tribute a message of fastidious directness from the American people to the people of the British empire."

The ambassador then declared that he acted by authority of the American congress in calling upon General Pershing to decorate the grave.

General Pershing then placed the medal upon the soldier's tomb.

Whitehall was packed by immense cheering crowds as the procession moved to the abbey. The cheers for General Pershing rose above those for Premier Lloyd George. The day had been cloudy but the sun came forth as General Pershing drove from the abbey to the cenotaph—the memorial to the empire's war dead—where he placed a wreath.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The first complete catapult for launching airplanes from the decks of battleships is now ready for installation at the Hampton Roads air station.

For some time light single-seater chase planes have been successfully flown from platforms built on the tops of battleship turrets, the short run against the wind being sufficient to give them the necessary "lift" but this system was not applicable to heavier planes and was found to interfere with the turret operation.

The newly developed catapult, however, gives the necessary impetus under any conditions and will not interfere with functions of the ship. It is believed by naval experts that future battleships will be designed with catapults as an integral part of their equipment.

The device itself is said to be based upon the same principle used by Samuel Pierpont Langley in launching his steam-driven experimental airplanes in 1896 and 1897.

It comprises a power-driven carriage running on tracks and carrying the plane. The carriage is driven along the tracks at an increasing acceleration until the speed becomes sufficient to permit the plane to take the air. The carriage is brought to rest by means of brakes and shock absorbers near the end of its run, from where it is drawn back to the starting point and is ready to launch another plane.

Beside the new launching catapults naval designers are working on plans to equip all ships of the line with hangars, machine shops and all necessary aviation equipment.

D. T. & I. NOT AFFECTED.

Cleveland Oct. 17.—Henry Ford's railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, extending from Detroit to Ironton, Ohio, will not be affected by the nation wide railroad strike, it was stated by union officials here today.

"Employees of the Ford road have no grievances," one official stated.

SHIP'S CAPTAIN ACQUITTED OF PASSING VESSEL

Captain Albert B. Randall, of New York, commander of the United States liner Hudson, who was vindicated by the U. S. Board of Steamboat Inspectors of the charge of having willfully passed by a disabled motorboat containing three fishermen requiring assistance. Captain Randall had been suspended pending the board's decision. It was testified that the radio messages sent out by the Hudson were not sent out with the knowledge or consent of Captain Randall. The fishermen were rescued by another steamer seven hours after the Hudson had passed them by.

HAYNES SATISFIED WITH PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT PLAN

Conditions in Pittsburgh Will Be Satisfactory in Short Time.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes returned today from Pittsburgh where he spent several days making a survey of the western Pennsylvania dry enforcement situation and announced his belief that conditions would be satisfactory in that section within a short time.

"Conditions which were exaggerated are materially improved," said Haynes, "and with S. F. Rutter, late assistant to Acting Director Yellowley in New York, assuming charge as associate director for Pennsylvania at Philadelphia today and John Exnicious as temporary head of the western Pennsylvania field forces, supplanting Field Agent Wolfe, in charge at Pittsburgh there will be a clean up, which whenever evidence justifies, will include higher ups as well as the little fellows."

Exnicious arrived here today from San Francisco to receive instructions before taking up his work in Pittsburgh.

ANTI-SOCIALISTS CARRY BERLIN

Berlin, Oct. 17.—The municipal election on Sunday which is regarded as a national barometer was carried by the anti-socialist forces. The total vote was computed unofficially this afternoon as follows:

For anti-socialist candidates 842,000 votes; for socialist candidates 815,000 votes.

The chief feature of the election was the strong swing from the independent socialists (radicals) toward the moderates. The socialists have recently been showing a trend away from radicalism.

ALLEGED "POISON QUEEN" ON TRIAL

Cleveland, Oct. 17.—Trial of Mrs. Ermelia Colavito, alleged "poison queen," indicted as a principal in the murder of Daniel F. Kaber, wealthy publisher was begun in common pleas court here this morning.

Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton changed his mind at the last minute, after announcing plans for a postponement until later in the week and asked that the trial proceed.

At the same time it was stated that Dominic Benigno, recently brought back from Mexico upon an indictment charging him with being one of the principals in the Sly-Fanner payroll murder on Dec. 31 would begin tomorrow morning.

GENERAL RAIL STRIKE MAY EXIST WITHOUT CENTRAL LEADERSHIP

Lack of Unity Between "Big Four" Brotherhoods and A. F. O. L. Railroad Unions Indicated Monday With Two Sets in Control of Situation.

FEAR OF BEING "DOUBLE CROSSED" SEEN

Two Organizations May Work Independently Which Will Likely Result in Big Labor Rupture—Disaster To Organized Workers Feared.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The Erie railroad today opened the way for an immediate strike of its employees by slashing wages in defiance of the U. S. Railroad Labor Board.

The wage order cut maintenance of way laborers from 37 1-2 cents an hour to 30 cents.

As soon as the Erie order was issued, the maintenance of way brotherhood called a meeting of its officers for Wednesday morning, at which time, it was stated, a call to strike at once might be made.

A recent vote, taken by mail, showed that the maintenance of way laborers were 98 per cent in favor of a strike.

The action of the Erie came as the heads of railway labor organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, met here informally and discussed plans for joining the strike set for Oct. 30.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor unions expressed resentment over the manner in which the "big four" brotherhood chiefs have handled the strike situation.

HIGHLIGHTS IN RAIL STRIKE SITUATION

Here are the high lights in today's railroad strike situation.

Chicago—Factional rupture threatened in union ranks. Heads of some of the eleven subsidiary unions (membership 1,680,000) demand assurances that chiefs of "big four" unions (membership 320,000) will not act independent of them on important strike questions. Merchants and shippers preparing fleets of motor trucks for transportation purposes in event of a tie up.

Washington—Post office and war departments co-operating on plans to keep the mails moving at any cost. The public group of the U. S. Railway Labor Board suggests as plan to avert strike that carriers cut freight rates commensurately with the wage reductions already granted, the unions meanwhile to withdraw strike order.

Cleveland—"There will be no turning back," W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announces on his arrival to attend conference of "big four" chiefs tomorrow. Warren S. Stone, grand chief of brotherhood of locomotive engineers, says proposal of public group of railroad labor board to avert strike is a "joke."

St. Louis—"Not feasible," says Benjamin B. Bush, president of Missouri Pacific, discussing the public group's proposal.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Lack of unity between the "big four" brotherhoods and the American Federation of Labor railroad unions which comprise more than two-thirds of the 2,500,000 organized railroad workers, was indicated today, with the prospect of a general railroad strike without a central head and two separate sets of demands formulated.

Executives of some of the federation groups demand, before calling out their men, an iron-clad agreement from the brotherhoods specifying the basis of settlement if the strike is called.

The consensus among the leaders is that no alternative is left the federation crafts but to join the strike. The chief executive, however, refuse to take responsibility and final action will be determined at meetings to be held in Chicago this week to which the general chairmen and vice presidents of all the groups in the switchmen's union of North America, which already has cast its lot with the brotherhoods, have been summoned. After each group has made its decision, all the chief executives will meet.

By agreement, no one group will act without the others and the majority decision will prevail over all. Suspicion of the brotherhoods is indicated in all American Federation of Labor quarters and they expressed fear of being "double crossed" by the "big four."

Leaders emphasized that unless the brotherhoods make an agreement for a joint board of strategy to carry on a strike and a common settlement the federation unions, if they finally determine to enter the strike, will carry on their end of it independently of the "big four" and make their own terms. A general strike with this division may result in a big labor rupture, according to leaders.

It is charged by the federation officials that the "big four" are prepared to settle the strike, if it is called, on the best possible terms to themselves and leave the federation groups in a lurch. A general strike with this end would mean interunion warfare with disaster to organized labor, they declare.

Discord has marked relations between the big four and the other railroad unions ever since last July when the A. F. O. L. unions wanted to strike following the 12 1-2 per cent wage slash and the "big four" refused to act with them.

The action of the "big four" in setting a strike date and formulating strike policies without consulting the other unions has rankled in the minds of the A. F. O. L. leaders.

The most conservative leaders are now working to prevent an open break and are urging harmonious action, at least on the surface, to force the issue on the railroad.

"It looks like the Waterloo in the gigantic struggle between the unions and the railroads, and if the American Federation of Labor unions finally decide to stick with the brotherhoods, there will be nothing left to do but to fight together and keep harmony for the sake of organized labor," said James Farnum, vice president of the United Brotherhood of Shop Laborers and Maintenance of Way Employees.

Not all the A. F. O. L. leaders are agreed as to the advisability of the brotherhoods' plan of four strikes, to be called 48 hours apart, as announced last Saturday night. Some insist that all the men be called out one day and simultaneously.

The federation groups are anxious to hit the Pennsylvania system first, as their chief fight has been against this line. As announced, the Pennsylvania is not included in the first group to be called out Oct. 30, and may not be reached until the third or fourth group is called out.

Brotherhood representatives pointed out today that their strike program hits the Pennsylvania about Nov. 3, or Nov. 5, which is just about the time the A. F. O. L. groups had planned their walkout on the line.

Grand chairman and vice presidents of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and the Brotherhood of Clerks, the two largest of the railroad unions meet here Wednesday for final action on the strike. The telegraphers and other unions outside of the shopcrafts will hold conference next Friday. About 300 general chairmen of the shopcrafts have been summoned to meet next Saturday. The chief executives of all the A. F. O. L. groups plan to meet next Sunday to hear the final decision of each union and to decide on the policy to be followed by all

MAY GIVE JOBS TO 300,000 WORKERS

Washington, Oct. 17.—The federal highway bill, as agreed on in conference carries appropriations which will make possible the employment of from 300,000 to 500,000 for six months, according to an announcement yesterday by the department of agriculture.

"It is a fortunate condition," the statement added, "that the states with the largest allotments and which can proceed at once with road construction, are the states where unemployment conditions probably are the worst."

TO MEET FRIDAY

Washington, Oct. 17.—The next meetings of the American delegation will be held Friday. Secretary of State Hughes today notified his colleagues, Elihu Root, Senator Lodge and Senator Underwood to meet with him at that time.

FORMER HOTEL MAN DEAD.

Indiana Has Better Roads Than Ohio; Spends Less

(STATEMENT OF SENATOR CHARLES BRAND)

Taxation has increased three times over the state, in the past twenty years and our present road policy, if continued, will make it four times in the very near future, if a sane policy is not adopted.

Champaign county officials realizing this are seeking a way to have good roads without increasing taxation, and with this purpose in mind, the commissioners, the county surveyor, and others, including the writer, have just made a tour of Indiana roads under the direction and escort of the Indiana Highway Department.

The expense of the state system of roads in Indiana, is borne entirely by the state for both construction and maintenance, and the total expense is only $5,000,000.00 a year. In Ohio we bond the counties for many millions and assess the township and property owners along the road, and provide in addition a State Highway Fund twice as large as Indiana.

In Indiana all state road construction and maintenance is on a cash basis, no bonds being issued for this purpose.

Indiana uses her native material, gravel and stone for practically all her roads, and has today a much more complete system of roads than Ohio, although we spend five or six times as much. Ohio refuses to use native material on her state system. We have now reached the point where the repairs on what hard surfaced roads we have are about to use up the entire income of our State Highway Department, yet most of our state roads are today unimproved, utterly and purposely neglected in order that property owners along these roads may be forced into a willingness to put down hard surfaced roads, regardless of cost.

Only two years ago the Indiana Highway Department began to function with only five millions a year income. They took over thirty-three hundred miles of main state roads, reaching to every county seat and every city of five thousand inhabitants or more. Next they made a complete survey of local road material in all parts of the state, and determined to reconstruct these thirty-three hundred miles of road for the most part with gravel and stone, using gravel where it was near, and stone where transportation was necessary.

Discontinue Hard Surface.

They did contract 132 miles of cement roads in 1920, but the expense of this small mileage has proven about equal to the entire expense of reconstructing and maintaining the balance of the thirty-three hundred miles, and this year Governor McCray ordered the purchasing of the hard surfaced roads discontinued. Two seasons have passed and this state system is now practically completed at a cost of $650,000 per mile, per year, for construction and maintenance on the gravel and stone roads. The construction includes an enormous amount of grading, ditching, widening of the road beds and resurfacing with a heavy coat of stone or gravel. The maintenance includes an adequate supply of gravel or stone being fed when needed in light coats to the roads, and also a dragging system applied on an average of twice a week throughout the year except when roads are frozen.

On this subject, the Chief Engineer of Maintenance, Mr. A. H. Hinkle, says: "We have expended by our maintenance division the past two years on our maintenance, reconstruction and bridge work a little less than five million dollars, and I wish to say that the large part of the thirty-three hundred miles of state roads is in most excellent condition for travel at this time."

One can drive 40 or 50 miles an hour over this Indiana state system covering endless miles of perfectly smooth roads, without fear of finding a rough place, except in towns and cities where the State Highway Department has no jurisdiction.

I think it is fair to say that these roads are smoother to ride on than even a new cement road, because there are no joints or waves to go over. They are generally 24 feet wide with a heavy coat of material over 18 feet of the surface, and the remaining 6 feet covered with a light coat of 4 inches. One drives all over these roads because they are level without much crown, and no bad places to avoid. No two vehicles seem to pick the same path.

The division engineers who have charge of these roads were with us and gave us all details of their construction and maintenance but we won't attempt to teach road-building in a news article. Suffice it to say that the secret of Indiana's success lies in the common sense plan of availing themselves of their native material and the principal feature of their maintenance system is the constant use of the road drag, which is applied on an average of twice a week.

We asked about the condition of these roads during the early spring month and the chief engineer of maintenance answered as follows: "There is no question about the gravel and stone roads holding up under traffic the year around, if the proper kind of gravel and stone and the proper maintenance work are used in connection therewith."

The state work has had a decided effect upon the secondary system of roads maintained by the counties. Following the state example each county has appointed a highway director. We called on two of these and they explained their county organization. The Farm-to-market roads under these county organizations are receiving almost the same care as the state system and what we say of the secondary system in state is smooth and delightful. And here in Ohio we are spending on our state system five or six times as much as Indiana. We have some eighty-six thousand miles of road in the state with four thousand, said to be paved, and the balance of the roads going to destruction.

Willie Hunter—St. Louis Stage Director.

We have with us now a strictly new idea—the staged golf match.

Some of our very best golfers are doing it and I observed that they know quite a little about it. In due time we may have the volume, "How to Stage an Important Golf Match." I suspect, also, that Willie Hunter, champion of Britain's amateur golfers, may be the author of it.

Another factor introduced this year at the recent national amateur championship tournament is best described, perhaps by the current term, "golf getting." Incidentally, I fell victim to this phase of tournament golfing and next week I may have something to say on that point and its relation to still a third development, one of the utmost consequences to golf.

I have been going to golf tournaments for 15 years and I observed for

Where is our trouble?

HOLD POSITIONS

If you will look back at the previous state administrations I think you will find at least two out of the previous highway commissioners now holding positions secured at the termination of their official duties with the hard surfaced road interests. If you will examine the present situation in the state highway department I think you will find the present director of highways was an employee of the hard-surfaced material interests immediately before his appointment.

The political complexion of the administration in at least three cases seems to have made no difference. Further the state director of highways controls one-fifth of the salary of every county engineer in the state and thereby controls more or less these engineers.

Perhaps these highway chiefs have been chosen because of their knowledge of the business, but what are the results? The hard-road material crowd want all the money spent on high-priced roads. If men of their crowd trained to their way of thinking, occupy the positions where the decisions are made, purchases of their materials are assured.

This explains why we don't make native material roads in Ohio. This explains why we cannot get state aid on gravel or stone roads in Ohio. This explains why we cannot get our money back from the state under the agreement to buy a high priced road. This explains why we are forced to get along with a few miles of high priced hard surfaced roads, while all the balance of the roads are in a dilapidated condition.

We will not have good roads reaching everywhere in the state until the highway department wholeheartedly helps to build roads out of native material and confines the hard surfaced roads to those carrying extra heavy traffic for the most part roads near the larger cities.

Michigan elects by popular vote her state highway commissioner. Perhaps there will be no other way in Ohio.

the first time, at the St. Louis meet, that there really were ways and manners by which a golf match could be "staged." The staging, it occurred to me, really gives the golfer advantages, and, although I have no intention of trying to inject any theatricals, so to speak, into my own game, it perhaps will interest golfers to learn just what can be done along these lines.

Willie Hunter, the British crack, came over here to lift our championship if he could do it, and few will ever know how close he really got to it. And Hunter is the best exponent of the "staged" golf match I have ever seen. This expert introduces a thousand little mannerisms into his game, every one of which is as fair as anything can be and every one of which helps him along toward a winning score.

The records show that Hunter defeated Bobby Jones on the 17 green. My firm opinion is that Hunter defeated Bobby on 15th green. Hunter did some of his match-staging here with tremendous effect. I dare say there were not three persons in the great gallery watching this play who really caught extra added features that Hunter was giving them, and, also, was giving our great Bobby.

The two players were on the green in three. Each had a hard putt ahead of him, some 25 feet. Hunter saw that it would be clever combination of good putting and and some luck to put down a 4 on this hole. I suspect that he didn't expect to hole out for a 4—and also he didn't want Bobby to do it. He introduced one of his effective tricks here, one that was highly interesting to me.

Bobby was away, so Hunter sat down on the green. Then he lay down flat on his back and drew his cap over his eyes. All this while Bobby was getting ready to address his ball. For just an instant Hunter lifted his cap and took a quick look at Bobby, then drew his cap over his eyes again. Bobby shot—and missed the putt by three feet. Hunter had accomplished everything he sought to do. Bobby, instead of being able to lay up for an easy 5, found himself with a really hard putt left in order to get down and halve the hole.

At another hole Hunter introduced some further staging effects that were really remarkable in their effect. He was on the green in two with his opponent likewise on. He had a putt of some 20 feet and the other ball was a like distance from the putt. But now observe: Hunter sighted his putt from both ends, squatting down in that peculiar way he has of simply tying himself in a veritable knot while he lowers his eyes almost to the level of the turf. Having sighted from every angle, he leveled his eyes directly into the eye of his opponent, gave him a fixed steady look for an instant then stepped over and sank his putt.

You will see that here was expert staging indeed. If Hunter missed the putt, nothing was lost to him, whereas if he sank it, as he did, his trickeries had the added value of causing considerable of an upset in the opponent's mind.

I mention these mannerisms of Hunter's not in criticism at all, for the British star cannot rightfully be criticised for adding to the game, as he does, but wholly to show that the foreign players have things in their style that could in themselves completely upset our tournament golfers. That Hunter failed to get through to the final of this year's tournament is in itself more of a compliment to American playing ability than perhaps was heretofore realized.

DEMPSEY TO BOX WILLARD IN SPRING

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Arrangements have been completed for a match between Jack Dempsey world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Jess Willard, former champion, either in New York, or in Jersey City, N. J., next spring, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager announced last night.

Kearns said he had been informed by Tex Rickard that the New York promoter had Willard's signed contract.

"I accepted Mr. Rickard's offer and notified him that I am willing to sign for Dempsey at any time," said Kearns.

BEAUTY CHATS

A DAILY FACE TREATMENT
The average good complexion will react to ordinary methods of cleanliness but the average poor complexion needs special care.

When I say "average good" I mean a skin without pimples or such blemishes, fine grained except for coarse pores around the nose, and only a little sallowness. That's an "average good"—that's what most women have.

The "average poor" complexion has a few pimples, or perhaps some blackheads, and is coarse in texture and not very clear in color.

X-RAY PHOTOGRAPH EXONERATES MAN

Chillicothe, Oct. 17.—An X-Ray examination of the body of Mrs. George Cottrill of Richmondale, who died Thursday, after being shot in the abdomen. Friday showed Coroner W. W. Davis announced, that the wounds were inflicted by a rifle held in her own hands. The fact that there were two bullet holes in Mrs. Cottrill's body and statements of one of her six children, that a man had done the shooting had caused police to hold Everett Cottrill 24 her brother.

He was released following the coroner's verdict which held that the shooting had occurred while Mrs. Cottrill had been wrapping up a rifle and that one bullet had made the two wounds.

"BABE" RUTH MAY BE RULED OUT OF PROFESSIONAL BALL

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The baseball future of "Babe" Ruth, the mighty home run mauler of the New York Yankees, is to be settled here today. It was expected with the arrival of Judge K. M. Landis from New York Banishment of Ruth from organized baseball was a possibility.

Ruth at Buffalo yesterday defied an edict of the high baseball commission by playing an exhibition game. The advisory committee had ruled that none of the members of the pennant winning teams in the major leagues would be allowed to engage in "barnstorming" tours.

WHAT RUTH SAYS
Buffalo, Oct. 17.—"I stick. I know I am right and the public knows I am right," said Babe Ruth to newspapermen just before leaving for Elmira, this morning with his fellow rebels—Bill Piercy, Tom Sheehan and Bob Meusel, where they are to take part this afternoon in another "outlaw" baseball game.

Ruth insists that he has a perfect right to play in exhibition games, notwithstanding anything Judge Landis might say.

WHAT LANDIS THINKS
Chicago, Oct. 17.—Without specifying what action he will take in the case, Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, strongly intimated upon his return here today that Babe Ruth, the big slugger of the New York Yanks would be punished for "barnstorming," games at Buffalo and elsewhere in violation of the baseball code.

"No law abiding player," said the judge, "need fear that the laws of baseball will not be enforced."

LASS WHO PROUDLY CHERISHES DIMES OF RICHEST MAN

What would you do if the richest man in the world gave you two nice, new, shiny dimes.

Five-year-old Virginia Denike, of Hastings, N. Y., who got the dimes from John D. Rockefeller, is going to put them on a ribbon and wear them around her neck. She thinks that money from such a source will act as a lucky charm.

Little Virginia attracted the attention of the venerable oil man by a song. They were passengers on a ferry-boat. There are musicians on the boat. Their melodies inspired little Virginia to break into an artless song. Her sweet, high voice made her the center of an admiring group.

Rockefeller, sitting in his auto, smiled as Virginia sang. He was still smiling when she finished.

He reached into his pocket and pulled out two new dimes. Then he called to his chauffeur and said: "Give them to the little girl."

RATIFICATION OF SEPARATE TREATIES OF PEACE ONLY SECURED BY FEW VOTES

Bare Margin of Three or Four Votes Will See Measure Through

Washington, Oct. 17.—A proposal by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, that the U. S. bind itself under the German-American treaty to protect Germany from aggression was defeated in the senate today by an overwhelming vote. The vote was 71 to 7.

Washington, Oct. 17.—By a bare margin of only three or four votes will President Harding be able to secure ratification of the German, Austrian and Hungarian peace treaties by the senate, Republican leaders estimated today when final consideration of them was begun.

But for the support of a little group of Democratic senators, led by Senators Underwood of Alabama and Hitchcock of Nebraska, ratification by the necessary two-thirds vote would be impossible.

So dangerously close do the Republican leaders admit the vote is going to be that they are seeking to have Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Knox without delay so they may be sure of another vote.

They predict, however, that by tomorrow or Wednesday possibly as late as Thursday, ratification will win "if only by a nose."

SAYS ASSURANCE WOULD END TROUBLE

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Assurance "from one big man in the government" that there would be no further wage reductions for a year would avert a nation-wide railroad strike. T. M. Pierson, second vice president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, declared here today before his departure for his headquarters in New York.

"If some big man in the government will guarantee the men there will be no further wage slashing the strike can be avoided," said Pierson.

When asked whether he referred to President Harding, Pierson answered: "Well, if he could give that guarantee, the strike would be called off."

KNOX ENTERTAINED TWO PRESIDENTS—HARDING AND ROOSEVELT WERE GUESTS AT VALLEY FORGE MANSION.

Senator Knox was beloved by the country folk in and about historic Valley Forge. The children of that quiet village knew him well and appreciated his genial kindness in permitting them use of the grounds which surround the old mansion in which he passed his summers. The Knox home at Valley Forge is one of the show places of the magnificent Schuylkill Valley, and it has been the scene of many noted assemblages.

Mr. Knox entertained two Presidents there. Theodore Roosevelt and President Harding. Mr. Roosevelt was Senator Knox's guest at Valley Forge twice while he was in the White House. Mr. Harding passed a week-end there last June.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Harding and Senator Knox, motored from Washington to Valley Forge on June 5. By a happy coincidence hundreds of Philadelphia school children were tramping over the hills of Valley Forge that day. They were admitted to the Knox grounds and for more than half an hour the President and Mr. Knox were surrounded by merry youngsters who greeted Mr. Harding with such childish delight and courtesy that he paid a tribute to the school training of the city and State.

On the following day the President, Mr. Knox and Senator Penrose, then just recovering from his severe and prolonged illness, passed the greater part of the day in conference. The presidential party left Valley Forge early the next morning.

The Knox home was one of the first buildings erected at Valley Forge in pre-revolutionary days. During the war and while Washington's army was encamped in the hills there, the house was used by various staff officers of the Revolutionary Army as a headquarters. It is within a mile of Washington's headquarters and within easy walking distance of other historic buildings.

When Senator Knox acquired the estate he remodeled the structure, although he was careful to preserve the Colonial character of the building. It is a low, white building, surrounded by ancient trees. It stands on the summit of a hill, so that one can enjoy a sweeping view of the historic fields from its latticed windows.

When President Harding was at Valley Forge Mr. Knox told him the house was more than 200 years old.

INTERESTING POINTS IN THE LIFE OF THE STATE SENATOR KNOX.

Senator Knox had been a figure in national politics for a few months more than twenty years. He abandoned a highly profitable law practice in Pittsburgh in 1901 to enter the Cabinet of President McKinley as Attorney General of the United States. He remained in that position following the death of Mr. McKinley and the accession to office of President Roosevelt. He retired from the Cabinet on July 1, 1904, to accept a seat in the United States Senate, left vacant by the death of Matthew S. Quay.

The purchase of the Panama Canal by this Government not only involved the payment of $50,000,000 in cash, $40,000,000 to the French company and ten million dollars to the Republic of Panama, but it also included delicate diplomatic complications.

President Roosevelt placed in the hands of Attorney General Knox all the business connected with the deal and relied upon his judgment implicitly. Knox went personally to Paris, examined all the records and papers, informed himself as to the pending litigation there, and then came home and reported to the President that he had completed all arrangements for the transfer of the property and the payments of the money. In accordance with his arrangements the deal was put through and the money paid over without a hitch of any kind. This was done for less than $4000, including the traveling expenses of the Attorney General and his assistants to Paris. If the deal had been put through a lawyer in private practice a fee of $500,000 would not have been considered unreasonable.

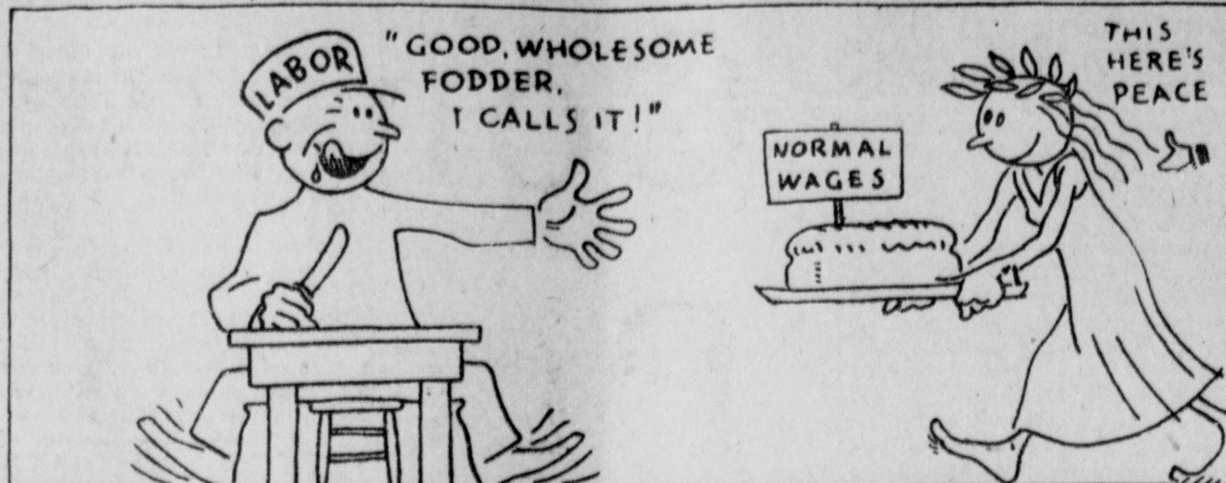

Senator Knox always was willing to talk of his early experiences. How he happened to learn the printer's trade he told in the following way:

"While attending college I got ahead of my classes, and, at my father's suggestion, went into a printing office for a year. He had learned the printer's trade, and believed if I did so I would know how to spell and punctuate and would have some knowledge about composition. I got a place on the Brownsville Clipper, a weekly paper scarcely larger than a handkerchief. I learned to set type, to write the news of the town, as well as rural editorials, and to pull the old Washington hand press. I did everything from keeping the books to sweeping the floor and washing the rollers. Only one other experience of my life was more useful to me than the year I spent on the Clipper. I am sure I could go into a printing office today and set type.

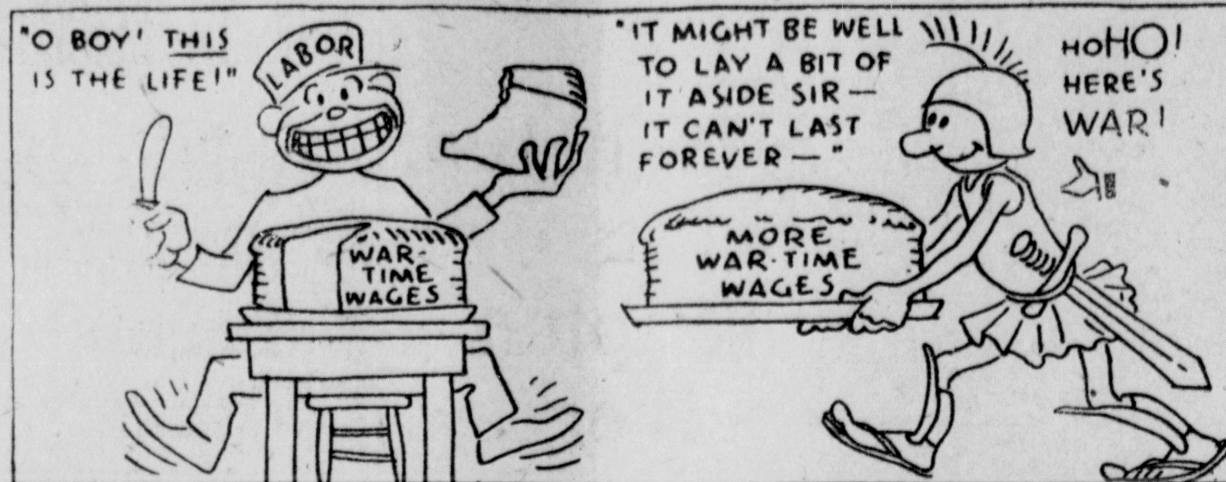

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

YOUR LIFE
I read a very lovely sentence the other day. I give it to you. "Life," said this writer, "is very precious—we must give it back to God some day so let us get the most from it."
It is interesting to note, however, that I have quoted from the letter of a Mother to her son.
And if there is anyone who looks life in the face, it is a real Mother.
Of course, compared to all in its eternal running, life is just like a quick breath, but stretching it into its own average of 60 years or so there is a great deal of time in which to do much.
And when you think of the lasting efforts of men and women whose work has come down through the years and made such an impress upon the world, you are able to appreciate how important it is that not a minute be wasted and that you learn to get and to give.
No man ever counts until he assumes responsibility. Responsibility demands the work of the mind and the heart. These two, working together, breed ideas. Then results begin to show. And results make you count!
People who are useful always count. So if you want to count—if you want to be singled out and praised—think of the most useful service possible for you to render. Then do it. The man at his job, doing it the best he can, is sure to count. If you're just a little kinder, and more thoughtful, it will make folks happy to have you around. You'll count.
If you do your work just a little better than the last one, the chief will need you. You'll count.
If you think and study just a little harder, you'll learn, and the world will need you. You'll count.
If you work just a little longer, you'll succeed. And then you will stand out of the crowd.

The soldiers of Greene County are holding their reunion in this city, today. A business meeting was held at the Opera House, this morning. The election of officers resulted in quite a close contest for president, for the coming year.

Mr. Joseph Steinmetz, a well-known business man, of this city, and Miss Stella Briley. The Xenia Driving Club has met with fine encouragement this morning, to furnish some good sport and the outlook for next season, is a bright one.

HENRY CLEWS Weekly Financial Review

The international conference at Washington beginning in November is now the significant event to which business and finance must look forward. It seems certain that the conference will be obliged to concern itself in no small degree with financial matters. Even if these do not figure prominently in the formal deliberations unofficial discussion will develop understandings which may be expected to have a direct bearing upon exchange and international debt relations.

UNCERTAINTY IN CONGRESS
From the national standpoint the uncertainty in Congress with reference to pending economic legislation is the most satisfactory element in the market position. The tax bill is going through a period of extensive modification, and it is too soon as yet to say whether its final form has been given to it. It appears at present that the repeal of the excess profits tax, effective January 1, 1922, will be retained and that the maximum surtax rate for individual incomes will be placed at 50 per cent. Agricultural interests have apparently succeeded in forcing the abandonment of the transportation tax as well as some of the so-called "nuisance taxes." Although Senator Smoot is still hopeful of the adoption of the sales tax as a substitute for some of the other taxes provided for in the bill, this must be considered a matter still to be determined by negotiation. The sales tax plan has, however, gained in strength within the past two weeks and now has a substantial number of members supporting it as well as a large general support among the business community. It is not impossible that the measure may be adopted in some form in Conference Committee as a compromise.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS
A favorable report on the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation showing a gain of about 20,000 tons and leaving a total at 4,569,000 tons, coupled with better demand for various classes of products, has been taken by trade experts as marking the turn of the tide in the steel industry, although it has as yet had no particular effect upon market conditions. Other indications, however, continue to point to a better trade situation. Among them are the upward movement of prices, which although still slight, amounting to possibly 2 per cent for September, is nevertheless an important indicator, and the increasing volume of production in a number of important industries. Motor concerns are in many instances turning out a large number of cars and textile conditions although irregular are distinctly better. The effect of higher prices for cotton is at length being reflected in improved collection prospects and better bank credit conditions in the Southern and Southwestern States. The least satisfactory phase of the situation is seen in connection with unemployment, which although relieved at some points, is still acute at others, while it has apparently not undergone much improvement in Great Britain.

A STRONGER BANKING POSITION

The continued improvement in the banking position has now extended itself practically throughout the country instead of being localized to the extent that has been true in former months. This advance in leading power is partly of course the result of the growth of reserves brought about by the flow of gold into the United States, which, however, has now been checked. Thursday's reserve statement showing a decline in gold. Developments in the past week or ten days, however, make it plain that the improved conditions are now in an important way the outcome of changes in the loans of the various banks. The Southern and Southwestern banks of the Reserve System have become much less dependent upon the Northern and Eastern banks than heretofore. A noteworthy feature of the general banking situation has been the curtailment that has taken place in foreign credits. This has been brought about in part through the closing of foreign agencies and branches and in part through the refusal of any serious risks. In consequence the exchange situation is left practically without much support in this market, a fact which tends to make quotations much more irregular than would otherwise be the case, and in part accounts for recent weakness. The decline in marks to .0669 is, however, the outgrowth of German political conditions. So far as any action looking to stabilization is concerned it is likely to be deferred until after the Washington conference. Meantime the appearance of Argentina and some of the Australian States as successful borrowers in this market shows that foreign countries are still looking to us for financial support in some form and are getting a certain measure of it.

MARKET REVIEW AND OUTLOOK

Trading has been on a relatively small scale. The fact that the week was broken by a holiday doubtless tended to reduce a volume of business which in any case would not have been large. Operations have been chiefly professional outside investment support being still narrow. The trading element is again in control but the smallness of the daily turnover indicates that it is operating very conservatively. The scarcity of buying orders originating with the public tends to influence the professional element to take its chances on the short side. This is probably the main reason why values are showing a tendency to halt

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

THE MODERN GIRL.

The other day while chasing along the thoroughfare, my old bus blew a casing, and I was stranded there. I heaved a sigh abysmal, and started to perspire, and life seemed bleak and dismal—I hate to change a tire. For I am old and cheezy, my hinges groan and crack, my ancient lungs are wheezy, and cricks are in my back. With rusty jack I wallowed upon the baking soil, and, toiling there, I swallowed about a quart of oil. Then on her motorcycle up came Jemima Blair; "Well, in the name of Michael," she said, "you've grief to spare! Your clothes you're disarranging, your whiskers are on fire; you are not built for changing a non-skid rubber tire. Go, rest—for rest is bracing—beneath yon sycamore, and I will change the casing, so don't swear any more." And I had said this maiden was frivolous and vain, a modern female laden with isms most insane. Because she was athletic, and wore a manish hat, I'd said it was pathetic to see a girl like that. Because she rode her pony, one leg on either side, I'd said she was too phony to be a good youth's bride. "I will not let you wrestle," I said, "with my old scow; man is the stronger vessel, in theory, anyhow. But since you've made the offer, I doff my hat to you; and I'm the champeen doffer when great souls are in view."

TWO ARE INJURED IN STREET FIGHT

to arrest the men peaceably they resisted his efforts, and Percy Sheeley threw a boulder, which struck the officer on the head, dazing him. Although almost senseless as a result of the blow, Jasper pulled his gun and shot Raymond Sheeley, a third shot going wild and after glancing off of the street, struck Herbert Hargrave in the leg.

Immediately after the shooting a man who gave his name as Bock, and his address as Octa, took the injured men in his machine to a Jamestown physician, where they were given medical attention. In the meantime the Sheriff was notified of the shooting and with Deputies Birch and Day arrived in Jamestown as the Sheeleys were preparing to return to Bowersville and placed them both under arrest.

Lucas and Hidy turned up again at Bowersville shortly after the shooting and were apprehended by the officers, who brought the entire party to this city. Raymond Sheeley was left at McClellan Hospital, Sunday night, for treatment and physicians say that unless infection results that his wounds will not prove serious.

The bullet which struck young Hargrave, passed clear through the lad's thigh and did not require a probe at the Eskey hospital, where he is a patient. His condition is not serious. When the men were arrested the officers confiscated a quantity of corn whiskey. Authorities say that an investigation disclosed that the Sheeleys have been in the habit of bringing corn whiskey into Bowersville. Both live on the 120-acre farm owned by their mother, near Luttrell.

Marshal Jasper, who was struck by the stone flung by Percy Sheeley which resulted in the charges of resisting an officer being filed against the latter, recovered from the effects of the blow, shortly afterward and was only temporarily dazed.

According to Prosecutor Williamson, the law provides for a fine of $100 on convictions for plain drunk now which makes the charge serious enough to cover the misdemeanors of Lucas and Hidy, who will be arraigned on drunk charges.

AFRICA FEELS HIGH COST OF WIVES LATELY

London, Oct. 17.—Oscar Olsson, a Swede, who has just returned from a 5,000 mile trip through central Africa where he made moving pictures for scientific purposes, declared today that the high cost of living is even a problem in the jungle and that the price of African wives has advanced from $5 to $6. An extra classy wife costs $6.50. Before the war the best wives cost only $3.50. Some were to be had as low as $2.

Mr. Olsson has filmed the Arctic before going to the equator.

"It was a most interesting trip," said the moving picture man. "It was worth while just to study the habits of animals. If there are any telegraph or telephone lines built the builders had better put the wires pretty high for, along the railroads I have seen giraffes, reach up and nibble the telegraph wires and then pull them down in disgust at the flavor."

Conscripted Prosperity

"When prosperity won't volunteer of its own free will, it can be conscripted by means of newspaper advertising", said the president of a large storage battery company, in a recent address. "It seems to us that instead of sitting down and crying 'Wolf', it would pay all concerns, who find their business in a position of partial stagnation, to increase their advertising in the daily newspapers."

"We have demonstrated to our own satisfaction, at least, that people WILL buy if your product is right, and the price is right, and you tell them about both, through the advertising columns of the daily press. We have proved for ourselves that the public is ready to respond to the right sort of appeal."

"The experience of our company is being duplicated by other manufacturers, who have the courage of their convictions, and the determination to see it through. Slack times are not times to cut down on advertising. If advertising is a business force, and there is plenty of evidence that it is, it should be employed more freely when business is dull than at any other time."

XENIA TEAM WINS OVER DAYTON 11 BY 7 TO 0 SCORE

A beautiful long pass, that soared high above the heads of the visiting players, and which enabled Paul Fuller to score with the only touchdown of the game, enabled the America Legion football team to defeat the Dayton Mascots at Gatch field Sunday afternoon by the score of 7-0.

The score was the only break in a hard-fought game that might have been a scoreless tie, as neither team was able to tally again after this one effort. The touchdown came in the third quarter. Buck kicked off to the Dayton team, and the visitors fumbled the kick. Unable to gain, Buck punted to the visitors, who were also unable to gain. Freed attempting a drop kick from the 40, at this juncture, a Dayton man was hurt and as the teams lined up after the time-out period, Fuller slipped out along the sidelines. On the first play, Walker shot out a long high pass, which Fuller glommed and raced 40 yards to the goal with Buck kicking the goal, and the fireworks were all over.

Scheer, Haynes and Davis starred for the Mascots, while the ends and backfield men, sparked for the Legionnaires. The lineup and summary:

FEEBLE BLOOD WORKS HAVOC

Gude's Pepto-Mangan
Makes Red Blood;
Liquid and Tablet Form

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to a falling off in the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a bluish complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

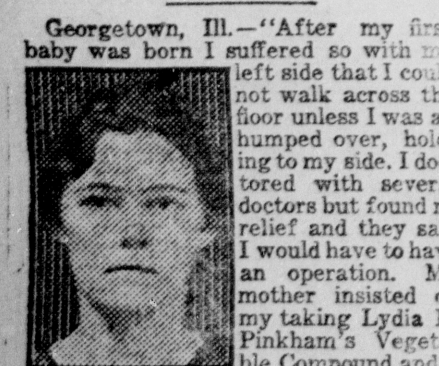

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. adv

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious
Operation by Taking Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Com-

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, holding to my side. I doctored with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise my medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me." — Mrs. MARGARET MCCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness, and if every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would get well.

WANT OHIO PRISON SITUATION CLEARED FOLLOWING REPORT

Columbus Correspondence
Ohio Republican Editorial Association
By Claude C. Waltermire, Correspondent.

Columbus, O., Oct. 17.—Examiners from the State Auditor's office have made a report of their findings in the examination of the accounts of the Ohio Penitentiary and no change is made from a previous examination. By giving Warden Thomas the benefit of every doubt, according to the examiners themselves, discrepancies amounting to more than $7,000 are found in the report.

It is the opinion of many since the legislative investigation of the "pen," disclosing the finding of examiners and unsatisfactory conditions within the walls of the institution, that some action should be taken. The fact that Warden Thomas is an active Democrat and permitted policies to enter into the penitentiary during the last campaign does not alter the facts. Facts and figures show that there is something wrong at the institution. Either one of two things is true—Warden Thomas is fit to conduct the penitentiary and should be retained and given a "clean bill of health," or he should be dismissed at once and a successor chosen.

It is not fair to the Warden or the Democratic party, which is fighting his battle, to have him go ahead under the cloud of suspicion. Most people who happen in and about the State House when James M. Cox was doing the "governing" can hear him delivering the ouster order and giving out several cutting statements about "Incompetent Republican office holders."

Cox, of course, would look at it in a different light with his pet warden under fire; Thomas being of his political faith.

The legislative investigation brought out the fact that the Ohio Penitentiary is not and has not been conducted satisfactorily. The Democratic member of this committee, Senator James A. Reynolds, of Cleveland, instead of aiding the committee to arrive at the truth, threw political purpose. fort to cover up for political purposes.

Some of the vilest campaign propaganda Bill Durbin used last fall was traced to a source within the walls of the Ohio "pen."

A well known newspaper association, which has always supported Democrats, sent its star reporter inside the "pen" walls as a guard, for the purpose of shielding the Democratic warden. The correspondent, however, came out and wrote a series of articles which failed to shield but rather condemned the inside workings of the institution.

With the facts before it, the legislative committee made its report. The auditor's examiners have made their report. The people of Ohio want this mess cleared up.

JAPAN NOT ONLY SINNER DECLARES DR. S. L. GULICK

Cleveland, Oct. 17.—"We must not forget that in seeking to solve the problems of the Pacific and far east, Japan is not the only sinner among the nations," said Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the Commission on International Justice and good will of the federal council of the churches of Christ in America, at the annual luncheon of the Cleveland Federation of churches here recently.

"Her military system, her aggressions and even her methods of diplomacy have been learned from western nations. Even during the great war, while Japan was taking her holdings and fastening her grip on China, so too was France; so too Great Britain. France forcibly annexed a large section of the city of Tien-Tsin to the 'French settlement' there, in spite of China's vigorous but useless protests, and Great Britain presented to China twelve demands in regard to Tibet as dramatic and incredible as Japan's famous 'twenty-one demands.'"

"Twenty five years is a long time to keep looking for something without finding it, and it's no wonder I almost lost hope. But I finally found what I was hunting—a medicine to relieve me of an awful case of indigestion."

"Tanlac rewarded my long search for relief, and I now enjoy better health than I have in thirty years."

mous "twenty-one demands."

The rights and needs of both China and Japan, as well as those of America in the far east should be truly provided for in the conference on the limitation of armaments at Washington, the speaker declared. This is essential "if success is to crown the labors of diplomats and a real and permanent limitation of navies in the Pacific is to be achieved," he said.

Dr. Gulick emphasized the "extraordinary complexity of the task ahead of the conference due in part to a long history of aggressions on China by many nations and also in part to China's own weakness and incompetence in dealing with international affairs."

He endorsed the demands of China, formulated at the Versailles peace conference in the following seven points:

1—The powers to declare that they neither possess nor claim any spheres of influence and special interest and that they are ready to revise all treaties, agreements, notes and contracts establishing such.

2—All foreign troops and police on Chinese soil, especially legation guards to be immediately withdrawn.

3—All the foreign postoffices to be suppressed. No foreign telegraphic installations to be made hereafter.

4—On China's promulgation of five new codes by the end of 1924, and creating new tribunals, extra territorial jurisdiction to be abandoned.

5—Leased territories to be abandoned.

6—Foreign municipal concessions are to be restored to China at the end of 1924.

7—After a time to be mutually agreed upon China is to have the right to fix her own tariffs.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It
Darkens so Naturally
Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PREDICT REQUEST FROM JAPAN OVER SHANTUNG MATTER

Tokio, Oct. 15.—A formal request from Japan to President Harding to mediate the Shantung question between Japan and China would not be a surprising development of the coming week. The opinion in well informed circles here seems certain that such a step will be taken should China refuse a second offer from Japan to negotiate for a settlement of the issue.

Minister Obata at Peking was instructed Wednesday to accept the original refusal of the Chinese government to negotiate, which he had steadfastly declined to receive until advised by Tokio to do so.

A second offer was understood to be in preparation and probably has been dispatched. Should, it be refused also, the mediation request to President Harding is then expected to go forward.

DETECTIVE'S AUTO STOLEN; IS FOUND ENTIRELY BURNED

Stolen from the parking lot at the Pennsylvania railroad passenger depot, Saturday evening, the Chevrolet touring car owned by Charles Mackrodt 408 Cincinnati avenue, lieutenant of the Pennsylvania railroad police, was later found burned up on the Lower Bellbrook pike about a mile and a half from Xenia. The car was taken sometime between seven and eight o'clock from a well lighted area with many people on the depot platform. Its disappearance was discovered by lieutenant Mackrodt about eight o'clock and he notified authorities. The car was found about 9:30 o'clock on the Lower Bellbrook pike but by that time had been completely destroyed by the fire.

No trace of the thieves was found when authorities arrived on the scene. The loss will be partly covered by theft insurance.

AUTO MYSTERIOUSLY BURNS IN WOODS NEAR GOES STATION

A Monroe roadster, which authorities say belongs to Paul Matthews, 414 South Limestone street, Springfield, burned up in the Hite woods, between Goes Station and Yellow Springs off of the Springfield pike, Sunday evening.

The burning car was discovered by a passing Xenia motorist, who notified local authorities. When discovered its lights were on and the engine was running although it was in flames. It apparently had been run off of the road into the woods. Investigation of the license number proved the identity of the owner, and the Sheriff notified Chief of Police O'Brien, of Springfield, of the case. Three tires were saved from the machine, and left with a nearby farmer for safe keeping until claimed by the owner.

PENSION FUND BEING PLANNED

Urbana, Oct. 17.—First steps leading to the establishment of a policeman's and fireman's pension fund by the city of Urbana were taken at a special meeting of the city council Thursday night when a committee previously reported to look into the matter made a recommendation to this effect.

This committee had been appointed to investigate a law passed by the recent general assembly providing that cities establish a fireman's indemnity fund. This law excluded policemen from the proposed benefits and added to the general expenses of the city by compelling it to fund such a fund while at the same time supporting the state workman's compensation laws.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

CASSEROLE ECONOMIES

The housekeeper who has once used a casserole is never able to get along without one in the future. For, she finds it so handy in the cooking of left-overs and such an economy in making the cheaper cuts of meat tender and delicious. A piece of rump beef cooked slowly in a casserole rivals the rib roast and sirloin cut; the casserole keeps the juices in and, because it is a covered utensil, steams the meat while it bakes it.

But it is the question of left-overs, that I wish to take up today. I believe there are many women who throw away odds and ends of cooked food because they have not yet "discovered" the casserole and consequently do not know how delicious such left-overs can be made to taste when cooked in some such way as the following:

When you have Egg Plant left over: Butter your casserole and place in the bottom of it a layer of uncooked onion slices; add a layer of either cooked or uncooked tomato; then add a layer of the egg plant. Repeat these three layers until the dish is full. Finish with finely chopped or grated cheese, with nicely chopped or grated cheese. The vegetables should be seasoned to suit taste before being placed in the dish. Add only a very little water, as the egg plant is an extremely watery vegetable. Bake slowly with the cover on until the onion slices are tender; then remove cover and bake in a hotter oven till the crumbs are brown. This is a very good dish.

When you have Carrots left over: Cut them in small dice. Open a can of peas and mix the two vegetables. Season slightly the turn them into your casserole with the following white sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a saucepan over the fire rub 2 tablespoons of flour till smooth, add 1 cup of milk and season with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Let boil up a moment, then add to casserole. Put the cover on the dish, let bake in a hot oven 40 minutes, then sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top and slip back into oven till brown.

When you have Cauliflower left over: Simply bake it for 20 minutes in the white sauce just given above, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, brown, and serve.

When you have either Shelled Beans or Lima Beans left over: For every cup of the cooked beans and 1 cup of canned corn, season, add a little water, and let simmer for 1 hour in the covered casserole. This makes a delicious succotash. A little chopped, cooked bacon adds much to the flavor.

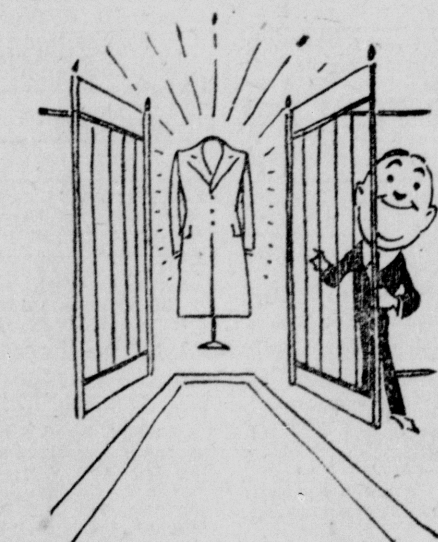

When you have Cabbage left over: Mix the cooked cabbage with the white sauce given above, season to taste, and turn it into a buttered casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a quick oven, uncovered, until the sauce bubbles through the crumbs and the crumbs are brown.

When you have Celery left over: This is good baked by itself in the white sauce like the cabbage and cauliflower dishes, or it is good cooked as follows: Cut the celery into small pieces. Butter a casserole and put a layer of the celery in it; add a layer of either fresh or canned tomato; sprinkle a tablespoon of raw chopped onion over the tomato, then add salt and pepper to season. Repeat these layers alternately till the dish is full. Cover with breadcrumbs, dot with butter, and bake 40 minutes in a hot oven.

THE NEW GENERATION

By Jane Phelps

CONCERNING CRAIG FORRESTER CHAPTER 65.

Casualty Margaret brought in Craig Forrester's name. Martha had finally left them alone, her manner considerably more cordial. The good luncheon had evidently had an effect.

"Mother, what are you doing here, in New York? I have a right to ask, haven't I?" with unusual humility, "And Why— are you so awfully different? And all the clothes and that wonderful apartment— and oh, everything?" she blundered through.

"My dear Joan, I do not intend to interfere with your freedom, your self expression. Why should you try to interfere with mine? I too am a human being like yourself entitled to just the same freedom of action. I tired of that sleepy old town and came here. I've told you that before—the other night."

Joan walked away. Somehow she never had been made to feel so young, so helpless. There was something she could not fathom.

Suddenly she wheeled and asked: "Is it Mr. Forrester, mother?"

"Is what Mr. Forrester?"

"Is he—to blame—for it all—the way you have changed and all. I think I have a right to know who has spoiled my mother."

"Am I spoiled?"

"Oh, I don't know! Perhaps! I am so puzzled. Tell me about Mr. Forrester," she said in a changed tone.

"Oh, Craig is a very good friend of mine," Margaret used his name purposely, her tone careless. "He is a charming man, don't you think? He makes New York very attractive for me. We must take you out with us occasionally—after I see to your wardrobe."

"Are you going to marry him?" Margaret flushed, then laughed.

"What a funny child it is to think its mother can't have a man friend without wanting to marry him."

"Are you in love with him, then?" As she received no other answer save a blush, she added: "Excuse me, mother. I have no right to question you—as you have just told me."

"You're excused. I'll admit I am awfully curious about you and your young friends. So it's a fifty-fifty proposition, my dear. Who is Dean Tennant? And are you in love with him?"

"I wrote you who he was, a clever artistic fellow. And I am not in love with him—not yet." The young voice held a threat it seemed to Margaret.

"I wish for your sake he wore cleaner linen," Margaret remarked. "Fresh linen adds to a man's appearance, don't you think?"

Joan disdained to answer. Was this, could it be her mother talking in this way? Could it be the little gray mouse of a mother who all her life had kept in the background and made her, Joan's life, her happiness, sufficient.

"How long shall you stay in New York, mother?" One would have thought them almost strangers instead of mother and daughter.

"Permanently I think. Why?" nonchalantly replied Margaret. "I must go now. Can I call a cab from here?"

Joan called the nearest cab station and ordered a taxi.

"She's glad I am going," Margaret said to herself a little repentant tug at the heart.

"Goodbye, dear" The taxi was waiting.

"Goodbye, mother. When shall I see you again?"

"Come to dinner on Sunday, Mid-day dinner."

"Thank you."

Margaret kissed her quietly, then said:

"Take care of your complexion Joan. Nothing adds so much to a woman's looks as a clear skin."

Joan could not know that her mother cried all the way back to the apartment; neither did Margaret suspect that Joan had thrown herself on the bed and wept bitterly. Each longed hungrily for the other, but neither would allow the other to know if they could help it.
